NEED TO INCREASE CAPACITY	No written mission; little shared understanding of what organization desires; vision not translated into concrete goals. If strategic plan exists, it is not used. Board provides little direction. Membership of board has limited diversity. Poor attendance at meetings.	Many staff and board positions are unfilled; high turnover and absenteeism. Organization runs day-to-day, no short or long term planning. Only addresses HR needs when they cannot be ignored. Focused purely on social impact, reluctant to change. No marketing or PR. Planning occurs on an ad hoc basis. Gifts and grants deposited and acknowledged, bills paid with supporting documentation. Organization addresses legal issues when they arise. No systems for tracking clients, volunteer program outcomes or financial information.	Limited measurement and tracking of performance, most evaluation based on a necdotal evidence. No social impact measurement. Few external performance comparisons made, performance data rarely used to improve organization. Core programs and services vaguely defined and lack clear alignment with mission and goals; programs seem scattered and unrelated to each other. No assessment of possibility of scaling up existing programs. No assessment of gaps in ability of current program to meet recipient needs; limited ability to create new programs, new programs created largely in response to funding availability.	No or limited financial planning, budget developed but not monitored. Weak fundraising skills and lack of expertise. No internal revenue generation activities. Highly dependent on a few funders, largely of the same type.	Minimal knowledge and understanding of other players and alternative models in program area. Limited use of partnerships or alliances with public sector, nonprofit or for profit entities. Not recognized in community, few community members or other nonprofits involved in the organization. Planning occurs on an ad hoc basis.

BASIC CAPACITY	Some expression of organization's purpose, but lacks clarity; not used to direct actions or set priorities. Some effort to develop a strategic plan. Board provides occasional direction. Membership has some diversity but few represented constituencies.	Most critical positions are filled; limited turnover and absenteeism. Some ability to develop operational plan, but not linked to strategic planning. Some ability to develop HR plan but not linked to strategic planning. Focused on social impact with some awareness of cost-effectiveness. Understands implications and impact of change. Takes opportunities to market as they occur. Planning done regularly with collected data. Finances are transparent and tracked to approved budget. Legal support resources are readily available. Electronic data bases in a few areas, not user-friendly.	Performance partially measured and progress partially tracked; collects data but does not use an externally validated social impact measurement. Some effort to benchmark activities and outcomes, internal performance data used occasionally. Most programs and services well defined and can be linked with mission and goals. Program offerings may be somewhat scattered and not fully integrated into a clear strategy. Limited assessment of possibility of scaling up existing programs. Limited assessment of gaps in ability to meet recipient needs; some ability to modify existing programs and create new programs.	Limited financial plans, ad hoc updates, budget used as operational tool. Main fund-raising needs covered by some combination of internal skills and expertise and access to external resources.
